

GRAPHOLOGY AS A PROFESSION

- a. UNDERSTANDING YOUR OWN SELF: What are you at this present juncture in your life? Right from your childhood to your present age you have gone through a variety of experiences, some good, some bad and these eventually form your personality. Knowing yourself, and improving your negative aspects could be one of the biggest advantages you can have through the study of graphology. One act that you unfailingly carry out every day is to look at yourself in the mirror. Here through this book we give you a similar mirror, but one that will reveal your personal thoughts, your sub-conscious mind.

- b. CHILD DEVELOPMENT: In today's world with excessive competition and limited seats in schools and colleges, parents literally impose themselves on the child without giving any consideration to the child's desires and wants. Here graphology can help in a very big way in understanding the child and the parents and helping them out. Also, child delinquency can be detected at a very early stage and the children given due guidance to become better citizens of tomorrow.

- c. CRIMINOLOGY: Graphology can be used in expedition of crime investigation extortion related to burglary, theft and even murders. Graphology helps in identifying the chimeral from the suspects without using harsh methods of investigation. Screening of suspects using Graphology can save time and complexities.

- d. RECRUITMENT: In most of the companies in India, the basic procedure to appoint a person is by inviting applications and recruiting him/her through direct interviews. But this may or may not provide an insight into the person and the way he thinks.

Consider a situation where a person is being appointed for a position wherein he has to make high level decisions. Though academically he may be excellent, it in no way implies that he can make sound decisions. And this decision-making ability can be detected in a major way through the writing and that too within fraction of seconds. Again if the person is not duty bound, is dishonest or may indulge day to day politics can all be detected through Graphology. In fact it is also possible to segregate people and give them specific jobs as per their thought process. For example an extrovert with the requisite qualification could be appointed in the marketing field, where he loves meeting people and can express himself clearly, whereas an introvert could be given more work in the planning department.

- e. SELECTING A LIFE PARTNER / UNDERSTANDING YOUR LIFE PARTNER: There is always a difference between 'boyfriend' material and husband material. Before marriage many boys promise the moon and the stars to the girl but after marriage the girls find out that the only thing they can see are stars in front of their eyes due to overworking! Before marriage many couples normally meet for not more than four hours. In this time both of them put their best foot forward and try to please each other. But after marriage things are drastically different, which either of them realizes by a difficult way. Graphology can assist in a major way in giving the person the true picture of his partner and hence selecting the right partner.

If you are one of those unfortunate immortals who have already taken the plunge have faith, because help is on its way! After reading this book one can definitely understand the spouse and iron out the differences if any.

- f. SELECTING A BUSINESS PARTNER: As important as it is for you to select a life partner, it is equally important for you to select the correct business partner. You can get to know the mindset of the person immediately and knowing itself can help you in making the right decision.
